

Solana

Mornings, the attic window invited a light so golden & sprung with possibility
it was easy to forget the blizzard wouldn't end.

*I've made you into a poem, little bird, see?
You're safe now. It's clear.
You can open your eyes.*